STEPHENS'S PROCESS for DYEING or STAINING WOOD, as a substitute for Paint. The natural grain of wood is imitated by art, but the most successful imitation has a sameness of appearance when compared with the continual variety which different woods present in their natural grain. To give an ornamental colour to the wood without obscuring the grain, is the object of this process, which surpasses paint in appearance, while at the same time it is so economical that the whole interior of a house, which would take a month or more to paint, can be stained in many, and be finished in one week. The process above named, and be more pleasing when finished. The dyes or stains are prepared and sold by HENRY STEPHENS, 54, Stamford-street, Blackfriars-road, London, in bottles of 6d. and 1s. each, and 5s. per gallon.
